How to use this guide

Welcome to the 2017 Summit County Directory of Mental Health Services!

This guide provides details and contact information for providers of mental and behavioral health services in Summit County, Ohio.

We hope that this guide will be useful to individuals and families seeking help, as well as providers seeking appropriate referral information. The guide is intended to simplify the complex and often confusing process of identifying appropriate providers and services for mental health concerns.

In this guide, you can access information about many different types of service providers in Summit County – from large hospitals to small private practices. We have included services offered by a wide range of professionals, including psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, family therapists, and substance abuse counselors. A quick-reference alphabetical listing of agencies and individual service providers are located in the front of the guide. More detailed summaries of these providers follow the quick-reference chart. Additional resources, including national organizations and websites, are included on the final page.

A special thanks goes out to the Austen Bioinnovation Institute in Akron (ABIA), who compiled the original list of these organizations in 2012.

Disclaimer: This guide is intended as a resource for persons seeking mental health services and providers seeking referral information. Inclusion in this guide does not imply endorsement of any specific provider, agency, or organization.

When to seek professional help

Each mental health condition has its own set of signs and symptoms. However, you might want to seek professional help if you or a loved one experience any of the following symptoms:

In adults:

- Confused thinking
- Prolonged depression (sadness or irritability)
- Feelings of extreme highs and lows
- Excessive fears, worries, and anxieties
- Social withdrawal
- Dramatic changes in eating or sleeping habits
- Strong feelings of anger
- Delusions or hallucinations
- Growing inability to cope with daily problems and activities
- Suicidal thoughts
- Denial of obvious problems
- Numerous unexplained physical ailments
- Substance abuse

In older children and pre-adolescents:

- Substance abuse
- Inability to cope with problems and daily activities
- Changes in sleeping and/or eating habits
- Excessive complaints of physical ailments
- Defiance of authority, truancy, theft and/or vandalism
- Intense fear of weight gain
- Prolonged negative mood, often accompanied by poor appetite or thoughts of death
- Frequent outburst of anger

In younger children:

- Changes in school performance
- Poor grades despite strong efforts
- Excessive worry or anxiety (i.e. refusing to go to bed or school)
- Hyperactivity
- Persistent nightmares
- Persistent disobedience or aggression
- Frequent temper tantrums

Paying for mental health services

If you have private insurance: Insurance coverage for seeing a mental health professional works similarly to how coverage works when you see your medical doctor. If the mental health professional you are seeing is a preferred provider in your insurance network, you will generally only have to pay your co-pay. A co-pay could be somewhere around $20 to $40. If your mental health professional is “out of network”, you will have to pay the full amount of the visit and then be reimbursed by your insurance company for the percent of cost that the insurance company will pay. If your plan is privately insured through an employer, Ohio’s mental health parity laws mandate that equal coverage (deductibles, co-payments, visit limits, annual spending limits, and lifetime limits) be provided for treatment of mental health conditions as is provided for treatment of other health conditions.

If you do not have private insurance: There are a number of other options for receiving mental health services. The Summit County Alcohol, Drug Addiction and Mental Health Services (ADM) Board funds several mental health agencies in this region. As a result, many of these agencies are able to offer a range of counseling services, usually at a reduced or free rate – or sliding scale – for Summit county residents with a low income. Many service providers also accept Medicaid and/or Medicare. Medicaid is a form of public assistance that pays for some health and mental health care costs for those who have low income and fit within certain eligibility groups. Medicare is government-sponsored health insurance for persons over the age of 65 or with certain disabilities. Medicare contains different parts (A, B, C, and D) that will help to pay for different mental health services (inpatient, outpatient, medications). If you think you might be eligible for Medicaid or Medicare, speak with a representative at The Summit County Department of Jobs and Family Services (330) 643-8200 or the Medicare Information Line (800) 772-1213.

Free Services: Many community, school, and religious organizations offer free services that could help support your mental health, such as self-help groups and toll-free support hotlines. Check with the providers listed in this guide, the additional resources on the last page, or your local social service agency, religious institution, university/college counseling center, or community center for information on what might be available to you at no cost.
